

Geomancy, the Magickal Arts of Earth Energies

In ancient times, Geomancers walked the Earth surveying our planet's energy meridians to locate the Earth's energy centers. Vital, huge stone monuments erected upon these energy centers help humanity evolve and survive. These ancient monuments are threatened by our civilization; many of them are being removed, relocated, or destroyed.

Geomancy is a form of magick that focuses on the application of Earth energies, specifically the energies of geological formations. Geomancy includes the magickal uses of gemstones, and the crafts of carving or engraving stones to enhance their magickal properties.

Geomancers consider the earth to have many energy centers similar to chakras, but on a larger, planetary scale. These energy centers appear similar to chakras because a prime characteristic of all geomantic energy centers is the presence of an energetic vortex where Earth energies are processed and redistributed.

Geomancers have been responsible for locating these energy vortexes for the purpose of erecting megalithic stone monuments to alter the Earth's bio-energetic fields in order to help stabilize the earth's magnetic poles, and to advance human evolution.

Stonehenge, pyramids, and obelisks are all examples of megalithic stone structures designed to influence and exploit the Earth's energy systems.

All geomantic energy centers are connected to one another by Ley Lines. Ley lines are avenues of energy that flow across the earth's surface in straight arcs from one energy center to the next.

(Note: Arcs result from the Earth's curvature; the plots of these lines on flat maps appear to be straight lines.)

Animals are known to instinctively orient their trails along ley lines. Humans have followed many of these animal trails to establish roads and trade routes.

Other human roads and highways have been deliberately designed to follow ley lines because many of our master architects have been members of the highest orders of geomantic magicians.

Many cities' maps show the precise locations of geomantic energy centers and avenues of energy, as these sites and avenues have been deliberately developed in a manner designed to exploit their magickal energies.

The geomantic stabilization of the Earth's magnetic poles has delayed the advent of a magnetic pole inversion. On rare occasions, along the scale of tens of thousands of years or more, the earth's poles have been demonstrated to reverse polarity due to the precession of currents of magma deep below the Earth's crust that have a very high iron content.

It is believed, on the weight of geological and mineralogical evidence, that we are currently overdue for an inversion of the Earth's magnetic poles. Thanks largely to the actions of the stone monuments erected at the sites of geomantic energy centers the next magnetic pole inversion event has been significantly delayed.

Aside from stabilizing Earth's magnetic poles, the megalithic structures erected on the sites of the Earth's energy centers have had the deliberate, designed effect of speeding up human evolution.

In particular, the large stone monuments erected by geomancers have helped to accelerate human spiritual and cognitive development. These stone monuments appear to work in a manner similar to acupuncture needles to stimulate the flow of geomantic energies through the earth's energy centers and the lattices of ley lines that distribute these energies around the planet.

These two specific actions of the megalithic monuments erected by geomancers balance each other and draw their power from each other. These actions were designed to ensure that humanity would have enough time to evolve and escape the planet before the next inversion of the magnetic poles. This is because any inversion of the Earth's magnetic poles will entirely destroy our current civilization due to our dependency on computers, satellites, and other electronic equipment, all of which are highly susceptible to damage by the high power electro-magnetic effects that occur during an inversion.

Geomancy, the Magickal Arts of Earth Energies

In addition to destroying the electronic foundations of our global civilization, a magnetic inversion may have serious repercussions for all organic life on earth. This is because most life forms have an inherent orientation to the magnetic fields of the Earth that appear to be disrupted by the inversion of the poles, as evidenced by the fossil records of some global extinction events that coincide with fossil records of magnetic pole inversions.

An inversion of the magnetic fields of the Earth's poles may therefore result in organic illnesses, extreme cognitive disorientation, and huge numbers of deaths by misadventure due to disorientation, such as pods of whales that may accidentally beach themselves because of their disorientation.

On a smaller scale, the application of geomantic arts has helped support kingdoms and nations. Our ancient Kings and Queens were often the high priests and priestesses of the magickal arts, and of geomancy in particular. These ancient monarchs were often regarded as incarnations of divine beings, gods and goddesses responsible for helping to maintain the fertility of the Earth.

Events such as famines and plagues were often considered to result from an imbalance in the Earth's energies. Our divine rulers often ritually sacrificed themselves in order to revitalize and restore balance to the Earth's energies.

Geomancy may be practiced on any scale. Some of the more personal arts related to geomancy include weather witching, gardening, masonry, rock collecting, and jewelry making.

Rock on!

BIO

We have been collectively known by the name Greg Gourdian for the purposes of publishing our articles. We perceive ourselves as a collective of people spanning many worlds in different universes. We seem to share many bodies; however we have only one body here in this world we share with you now.

We worked with the general public as a psychic reader in several psychic fairs for a little over four years from 1981 to 1986.

Much of our written work has been channeled however we often have no idea whose voices are speaking through us when we are channeling.

We have many strange tales to tell regarding our odd adventures in this world, in other worlds, or on our spiritual journeys.

We try to tell our tales in a humorous, engaging, entertaining manner.

While we were a high-school student we channeled classes in metaphysics and parapsychology, and taught classes in sociology, and psychology.

We are still emerging from the closet in regard to being a collective of many people inhabiting what appears to be a single body in the context of the world we appear to share with you. Our current written works reflect this change in our personal perspective by adopting plural forms of reference to ourselves that may not always appear consistently, particularly in our older work. Using plural forms of self-reference helps us to develop a greater awareness of ourselves as a collective as well as conveying to other people how we perceive ourselves.

We hope you will understand if we may sometimes sound awkward, confusing, or conceited as a consequence of making this adjustment to our self-references.

Our group's primary beliefs share these ideals:

- Love should always be universal.
- Liberty should be unconditional for everyone.
- Justice is best served by not judging yourself or any other people.
